

Engaging, Thought Provoking and Inspiring.

Transforming Healthcare Through the Power of Communication.

in Anthony Orsini, D.O. 973-464-8857 www.AnthonyOrsini.com

Speaker Bio

Dr. Anthony Orsini is a nationally recognized ICU physician, keynote speaker, and best-selling author with more than 25 years of frontline experience navigating the most difficult conversations in medicine.

A TEDx speaker and Apple Top 100 podcast host, he brings international visibility and real-world credibility to his work on communication in high-stakes environments.

His keynotes focus on communication in times of crisis and uncertainty, equipping leaders with the skills they need when it matters most.

Unlike theoretical or purely motivational speakers, Dr. Orsini delivers practical, evidence-based strategies audiences can put into practice immediately. His approach strengthens trust, reduces conflict and risk, and improves communication. The result is better outcomes for patients, teams, and organizations.

ELEVATING HEALTHCARE THROUGH THE POWER OF COMMUNICATION

- Mastering Compassionate Communication
- Building Trust and Human Connections
- Elevate the Patient Experience
- Reducing Malpractice Risk
- Strengthening Team Communication
- Preventing Burnout
- Navigating Difficult Conversations
- Resolving Conflict
- Transforming Healthcare Culture

- 25+ years as a practicing ICU physician — this isn't theoretical knowledge; he lives these conversations daily
- Featured in Forbes and Medical Economics — recognized authority on communication and leadership
- Best-selling author (It's All In The Delivery) — available as event companion resource; bulk orders available
- Discovery and pre-event discussions to customize every presentation for maximum impact

KEYNOTE

Remember Your "Real" Why

PERFECT FOR

- Physicians
- Nurses
- Nursing Leadership
- Healthcare Providers
- Executives

REMEMBER YOUR "REAL" WHY

Healthcare is facing a burnout crisis that threatens the entire system. Physicians have the highest suicide rate of any profession, affecting over 900,000 patients per year. Nursing turnover alone costs the average hospital $5–9 million annually. And the clinicians who stay are increasingly disengaged — going through the motions without the connection to purpose that drew them to medicine in the first place.

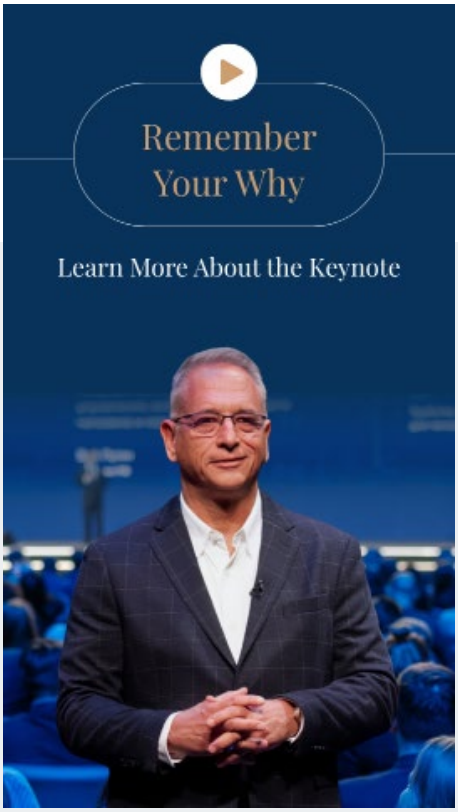

Most burnout interventions focus on symptoms: yoga, wellness apps, resilience training. They have shown limited success because they don't address the root cause — a loss of meaningful connection with patients, colleagues, and the reason clinicians chose this profession.

WHY DR. ORSINI

Dr. Orsini isn't a wellness consultant advising from the outside. He's a practicing ICU physician who has watched colleagues burn out and leave medicine — and who has spent decades studying what keeps the best clinicians engaged. His research shows that the antidote to burnout isn't less work. It's more meaningful work — and that starts with communication.

THE KEYNOTE

This session helps healthcare professionals reconnect with the reason they entered medicine. Dr. Orsini shows how creating a culture that encourages strong relationships — with patients, families, and team members — is the most effective burnout prevention strategy. Attendees don't leave inspired for an afternoon. They leave with tools to build the kind of work environment that sustains purpose over a career.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

- Reconnect your team to purpose — learn how to revitalize enthusiasm for medicine by rebuilding the human connections that burnout erodes
- Identify burnout before it's too late — recognize the early signs of professional burnout and debunk the myths that prevent organizations from addressing it effectively
- Improve margins by improving culture — see the direct link between patient experience, employee retention, and net revenue — and learn how communication drives all three.